Stuck-Up Suit

Synopsis

It started out like any other morning on the train - until I became mesmerized by the guy sitting across the aisle. He was barking at someone on his phone like he ruled the world. Who did the stuck-up suit think he was...God? Actually, he looked like a god. That was about it. When his stop came, he got up suddenly and left. So suddenly, he dropped his phone on the way out. I might have picked it up. I might have gone through all of his photos and called some of the numbers. I might have held on to the mystery man's phone for days, until I finally conjured up the courage to return it. When I traipsed my ass across town to his fancy company, he refused to see me. So, I left the phone on the empty desk outside the arrogant jerk's office. I might have also left behind a dirty picture on it first, though. I didn't expect him to text back. I didn't expect our exchanges to be hot as hell. I didn't expect to fall for him - all before we even met.

This book takes place in my favourite city ever. New York City. It started out like any other morning on the train. Until I became mesmerized by the guy sitting across the aisle. If you have ever taken the train in New York at rush hour you know that it's crowded, to say the very least. It's stuffy and everyone basically minds their own business. But he caught her eye. His barking tone, his beautiful face, the fact that he played with his watch while in his own world. Everything about him screamed superior to her. Everything inside of her was drawn to him. Entranced by her thoughts she didn't see him leave, but she did spot his phone that he left behind!! might have picked it up. OH BOY THIS IS GOING TO BE GOOD!!!! She is sitting at her desk with the phone burning a hole in her pocket. It's like she is walking around with a detonator in her pocket, she's so afraid. Till she picks it up and goes through it! She does what every single woman would have done, she checks his pictures, she checks his contacts.
